

BIOHORIZONS[®]

Implantology Year Course
With Dr David Guy
In Association With Biohorizons

Introduction

Implant treatment has now become firmly established within mainstream dentistry.

Single tooth implants have, in many cases, become the standard of care in preference to conventional bridgework or dentures.

The GDC has made clear its recommendations for the standard of training dentists must undertake to practise implants in general practice today.

This course has been designed to provide a very high level of practical and theoretical training to give dentists the skills and confidence to provide implant treatment independently in general practice.

No prior experience of implantology is required.

The Certificate in Implantology course credits you with 70 hours of verifiable CPD.

Course Description

The course gives a very prominent role to practical teaching as well as theoretical aspects.

There are 10 lecture days over a one year period, as well as extra practical sessions with participants own patients.

A key component of the course is that participants will treat their own patients from start to finish under one-to-one supervision at Guy's Dental Clinic, gaining essential skills and knowledge of real implantology.

Ten patients from participants own practices may be treated during the course period and an extended period after the course is completed, to allow all delegates to gain practical experience with a range of increasingly complex implants treatments.

Patients will pay a reduced fee to the practice for this treatment

In depth teaching will cover implantology from single tooth to full arch restorations, and principles of bone grafting.

The course is held at Guy's Dental Clinic and the lecture facilities on Cathedral Road in Cardiff.

The course is limited to a maximum of 8 participants to give an optimum level support to each person.
